

7521105770.txt

The FCC should reclassify broadband internet as a telecommunications service because it is truly unfair to allow cable companies to decide who gets access to what content and at what speed.