

7521105968.txt

I believe that the FCC should reclassify broadband internet as a telecommunications (or "Common carrier") service. Access to the internet should not be restricted as it has evolved into an important venue for information, education and social activism.