The internet was created to a large degree through public funding. It is tremendously important that "net neutrality" be maintained and that corporate interests are not allowed to take control of this public resource. As a federal government oversight commission, it is essential that the members of the FCC recognize that the internet must remain accessible to all citizens and that the broadband providers must never be allowed to determine what content people can access on the internet. Please ensure that "net neutrality" will be the policy that the FCC supports for the people of the United States and of the world.
