You know what happens when you give in to corporations. We have seen it in the Gulf Coast. We have seen it in the fracking fields. We have seen it in Enron, in the banks, in this country's ruined housing market. Taking the internet away from the people and giving it to the corporations that want to control what we see and what we do will only give them the power to govern us through manipulation of how we see the world outside our homes. Give the internet back to the people. Give us the power to discover without a filter or lens.
