Please do not let the various ISPs stifle innovation by controlling the flow of information via the internet. As I understand, all that needs to be done is to classify the ISPs as telecommunications providers (Title 2) as oppose to thier current classification as (Title 1). As I also understand, this will not be a difficult action. The ISPs had done enough malicious acts to warrant being sued in court, but haven't done enough to warrant being reclassified? The courts have explained to you that this is all you need to do. The American people will only lose if the ISPs are not regulated.
