

7521108123.txt

In regards to the latest issues with Net Neutrality, it is my belief that broadband internet should be classified as a telecommunications service. It should not be tampered with by giving favor to some websites over others, or allowing Internet Service Providers to decide which websites they want to provide faster service for and those who do not.