

7521108597.txt

In light of recent events, I have realized that the threat to the exchange and implementation of creative ideas via the internet is in great jeopardy. Please, I urge you to reclassify broadband internet as a telecommunications service or as a "common carrier" to ensure that the American (and human) freedom of innovation is not starved out by a few greedy companies.