

7521108664.txt

I'm commenting to urge Chairman Wheeler to scrap the FCC's plan to allow Internet service providers to charge for preferential treatment.

These rules would destroy Net Neutrality. I urge the chairman to throw them out and instead reclassify broadband as a telecommunications service. This is the only way to restore real Net Neutrality.

All information should flow freely and equally through the internet with no change to this structure which upholds the American belief of Freedom of Speech. Irregardless of the type of company, person, or service you provide your internet providers currently treat your data just as equally as everyone else. There is no reason for this change, for people's voices to be silenced at the cost of the internet service provider's desire to gain a larger profit.

If the U.K. can do net neutrality right then certainly we as Americans can do too. Let's us not trip and fall behind our neighbors on this one.