

7521108975.txt

I wish to express concern over recent decisions made by the FCC to allow telecommunication companies to create a "fast lane" for broadband access. I believe it is in my interest and in the interest of the general public to maintain an internet with equal opportunities for everyone, not just large companies that can afford to pay an entrance fee. This is why I believe that the FCC should stand in favor of net neutrality.