

7521109731.txt

The internet is a wonderful thing, It allows for the exchange of information globally. This website itself exists because of it. The thought that some people want to get into the middle of this resource is aggravating to no end. The internet must be reclassified to keep net neutrality. Nobody can have all the control over the phone lines, so why do we do it to the internet? Please help to keep the world a better place by reclassifying broadband internet as a title II common carrier telecommunications service.