

7521109997.txt

Net neutrality is really important for the innovation of the United States, and not having these companies designated as common carriers can hinder this.