

7521110264.txt

The internet is a service that should be one of egalitarianism and openness. Regarding it as anything other than a public utility is bowing to special interests and hurting the public. It should rightfully be classified as a title II common carrier telecommunications service