So I'm sure that you are aware of the net neutrality laws that are being looked at in Congress. However these laws are actually the opposite of what net neutrality is. Having internet is quite basically a thing that all people should have and honestly to have it not be a title II common carrier telecommunications service is absurd. You should really really reclassify it as a title II common carrier telecommunications service as soon as possible.

Do you want internet monopolies? Because this "net neutrality" law is how you get internet monopolies. If you don't reclassify the internet as a title II common carrier telecommunications service, then the internet will become a cold, barren place where only first-world people will be able to exist.

I want the internet to be free. Please make the internet free.
