

7521110473.txt

I ask you to reclassify broadband internet as a telecommunications service. It doesn't make sense to regulate broadband internet in the same way as radio or television; they are completely different methods of communication. It is not the job of ISPs to determine who has access to what content and at what rate.