It's extremely important to me and millions of netizens, present and future, that the FCC reclassify broadband Internet as a title II common carrier telecommunications service in order to preserve the Internet as an accessible tool for creativity and innovation.

History has plainly illustrated the economic, social and constitutional dangers of allowing the profit motive to govern essential services and utilities. I implore the Federal Communications Commission do whatever it must to preserve net neutrality. The consequences of failing to do so, both long- and short-term, will be disastrous on many levels.
