

7521110849.txt

Broadband internet should be reclassified as a telecommunications service instead of the current classification that regulates it like TV or terrestrial radio. The internet should be treated as a common commodity with equal access.