In this day and age, the internet has become a necessity or modern life, like our cells phones and oil. While it is possible to function without these things, it slows all forms of progress down to a snails pace. The internet is the oil of the new age, and Internet Service Providers that want to end net neutrality want to become the next John D. Rockefeller, the one person to have a complete monopoly on a service or goods. Oil is used to get places; internet is used for sending data places. This is a video that helps explain why net neutrality is necessary:
