

7521111506.txt

I find it sad that we, the people, even have to protest against the removal of net neutrality. The internet is amazing and growing because of the current state of net neutrality. Removing net neutrality will stymie the internet as we know it. The invention of the internet is one of the greatest technological advances since the printing press. I, Bert Maxwell, promise to take action if net neutrality is abandoned.