Reclassify broadband internet as a Title II common carrier telecommunications service. We are not in the business of keeping rich companies alive. Just like any business (Blockbuster Video) if it can no longer compete than let the new technology replace it. Not a single citizen owes the carriers anything. The reason they are in business is because they believe they can make money and take that risk. If it fails it is not the FCC's job to ensure it can still make a profit. The internet is here and I'm sure there are a million ways of making money that no one has thought of and that is where the carriers should be putting their effort.
