A free and open internet, where everyone has equal access to content and ideas, not constrained by a third party, is the ultimate in the freedom of information.

We see in other countries where the internet has become so regulated that the government leaders are capable of choosing what is able to be done with the internet and what isn't. This is common tool by them to censor anything they dislike.

Please, do not hinder Net Neutrality in the least. Letting corporations dictate who can see what and when is among the worst forms of tyranny. The current plan the FCC has announced does not serve the People of the United States, it serves the big corporations. It doesn't help small corporations get established, no, it puts road blocks between them and their competitors, that will be nearly insurmountable.

Do not violate Net Neutrality.
