

7521111647.txt

Classify broadband internet as a title II telecommunications service. I defend net neutrality.

The internet is like a highway in which I travel frequently. If the person that owns the highway decides to only let a few people get in and out for free and sets up overpriced tollbooths, I cannot just take another route. I think this is the only way the internet will continue to be a community of innovators.