

7521112230.txt

It is necessary to classify ISPs as common carriers. To promote economic, intellectual, and psychological well-being in the technological world we live in today, it is vital that the internet be protected from abuse--the kind of abuse that hinders research speed of intellectual pursuits in favor of higher subscription rates or personal/corporate agendas.