

7521112435.txt

Nothing worries me more about the future of our country as a lack of net neutrality. It's imperative that Internet Service Providers be classified as Title II Common Carriers. Nothing would slow innovation, freedom of thought, and the flow of information more than what ISPs are trying to do to our country's biggest and most inclusive telecommunication method.