The United States most recently ranks behind several European and Asian countries in Internet speed comparisons (<http://www.bloomberg.com/slideshow/2013-07-23/top-20-where-to-find-the-world-s-fastest-internet.html>) and in the price of broadband Internet (<http://www.bbc.com/news/magazine-24528383>). A free and open market for broadband Internet in the United States will improve our quality of service, allow us to be more competitive on a global scale, and reflect our nation's ideals.

Please maintain our Net Neutrality and stop the monopolistic broadband companies from taken advantage of this country.
