Net neutrality is an important bastion of free speech in a era when open access to the world-wide communication network is essential to being informed and being heard. The concept of equality is the foundation of our nation and has been critical to our success. Don't let the digital equivalent become corrupted.

Minor quibbles about performance of networks don't stack up against principled stances maintaining equality. Network performance is a technical problem, net neutrality and the equality of everyone's data is a moral principle.
