Hello,

I was just informed that you the Internet Neutrality was being processed by some in order to get "faster" internet to certain sites and things of that nature.

While it is true that we want faster internet, we do not want the sites we all love to be "neglected" and "abandoned" because we will not be able to see them because the companies choose not to "support" said sites.

The Internet Neutrality rule is a great rule, it should stay. I am saying please consider how much damage and frustration it would cause the average and even avid internet user.

Just think about it.
