

7521113859.txt

I urge you, the FCC, to reclassify Internet Service Providers as Title II common carriers in order to preserve net neutrality and protect the growing American tradition of small, innovative startups having equal and unfettered access to the global commerce and communication network that got its start here in the United States. Allowing ISPs to segregate traffic will stifle innovation and push it to other markets, crippling our growing and world-renowned Internet-based economy.