I join the ranks of many others in asking that you reclassify broadband internet as a title II common carrier telecommunications service. Lobbyists for the Internet Service Providers are obviously doing their best to preserve the interests of their companies, which at the moment defies what is good for the people. Reclassifying access to the internet as such would be the proper, solid way of assuring Net Neutrality - a key aspect of what makes the internet such a driving force for change and innovation. A new piecemeal policy with vague rules and loopholes to exploit is not the way. Please remember that you work for all the people, not the companies who can hand you the biggest paycheck at the end of the day. While it is not always the easiest thing, I trust that you will do what is right.
