

7521114707.txt

I believe that the quality of the websites I visit should be determined by the people who make the website, not the Internet Service Providers. But this proceeding makes it so that an Internet Service Provider can choose to sabotage the transfer speeds of a website at their own leisure, lowering the quality of the website just because they desire to do so.