

7521115301.txt

Net neutrality is a necessity for the continued efficacy of the internet. It ensures free speech as well as actual capitalistic competition for service providers and any business on the internet (which is almost all businesses at this point).

It should be illegal to threaten net neutrality but unfortunately legislation is slow and/or corrupt and so we are writing to you about it. This is a necessity if we are to consider this a free country.