

7521116530.txt

This country needs to classify Internet Service Providers as Title II Common Carriers. North American ISPs are already some of the slowest, while being most expensive in the world. A two tier internet, which is exactly what ISPs want, would be very negative for this country. As a network administrator the current proposed ideas keep me up at night.