

7521116661.txt

Broadband internet service needs to be classified as a title II telecommunications service instead of simply allowing cable companies to regulate content available to citizens based on financial motivation.