

7521117035.txt

I strongly believe that the FCC should reclassify broadband internet as a telecommunications (or "Common carrier") service. ISP's should not get to determine how the internet function while charging businesses access to their customers AND vice versa.