The imperative is to keep the Internet as open and free as possible- PLEASE LISTEN to all the well reasoned and excellent material put together by the public interest groups. No wonder it differs markedly from the incumbent companies who are already profiting immensely keeping our internet bottled up and making it the laughing stock of the free world. The FCC has not addressed the arguments made in the book by Susan Crawford, "Captive Audience: The Telecom Industry and Monopoly Power in the Gilded Age".

This proposal you may mistakenly vote to approve is NOT what the answer is, and anyone looking at this objectively with the facts in hand knows it- DON'T let the big companies get another handout and change the US internet (& the world's) for the worse- you have a total majority of public opinion behind you, if you were only to ask for it and listen to the response. Now's the time to do the right thing. please, for the children. Let's read a headline where the government makes the right decision for a change- please please listen to the consumers and public interest groups who've dedicated their lives to expressing the details and ramifications on this. Until you can debate Lawrence Lessig and Susan Crawford in public and win, it's really not right to go against history here. You can do it!!!
