

7521117271.txt

It is critical that broadband internet service be classified as a Title II Common Carrier telecommunications service. Failure to do so will take away the only level playing field that the small business owner or individual citizen has against large corporations. The internet belongs to everyone, not to the companies pushing for an end to Net Neutrality.