To whom it may concern,

Allowing the merger of Comcast and Time Warner Cable is unwise. As the first and second largest ISPs in the world, the result of these companies merging would lead to an unstoppable monopoly. Under the proposed "fast track" method of promoting an open internet, ISPs are already to be given far too much power over the flow of internet traffic. Allowing a Comcast/Time Warner Cable monopoly would be the final nail in the coffin and the free internet we currently know could be destroyed. As it is, Comcast is largely responsible for inflating internet prices in the United States and restricting them to nearly developing nation speeds. With the United States being the world's greatest power, it is unacceptable for a corporation such as Comcast to be given so much power over the internet, a service that nearly every American needs to use every day. This issue is extremely important. Please, do not allow this merger to continue. Do not allow Comcast to control the lives of every American.

Sincerely,
Alan Gross
