

7521117465.txt

The FCC proceeding 14-28 "Protecting and Promoting the Open Internet" is proposing a "fast-lane" plan for ISPs and calling it net neutrality. In fact this proceeding is the opposite of net-neutrality. I believe that the FCC should instead hold strong to its original plan of treating ISPs like common carriers by actually designating broadband internet as a title II common carrier telecommunication service.