

7521117543.txt

The internet should be treated as a common carrier. The service provider should not get to choose which information can go at what speed.