

7521118804.txt

Please reclassify broadband internet as a telecommunications (or "Common carrier") service. The idea that companies like Comcast can give preferential treatment to content they like quickly goes from me paying more for Netflix to me not having access to dissenting political viewpoints, or information about other ISPs. The greatest thing about the internet is that it is available to everyone, equally - a vast, vast wealth of information, available to all. This will destroy that. Please don't let it.