

7521119133.txt

I am for net neutrality. Bandwidth is not a commodity that should be limited or broadened by companies charged with managing a public good. The value to our society by the tool that is our internet access is immeasurably burdened by abandoning net neutrality. The next generation of Americans (and the world) will be thankful for net neutrality remaining the standard.