

7521120063.txt

I firmly advocate for ISPs to be classified as a title 2 common carrier. From the past and present actions taken by current ISPs (one example being their monopolistic stance), I have no faith in giving a right to a "fast lane" to these companies. I don't care what amendments are added that stipulate that ISPs can't discriminate against whomever they please (by alternating the bandwidth/bandwidth throttling). Thank you for consideration.