

7521121008.txt

Broadband internet should be a common carrier service. By having internet providers limit the content we see, and charge unnecessary charges on users and services only benefits themselves and has no positive impact on users or companies.