

7521122016.txt

This is a terrible proposal that does the exact opposite of what the title suggests. Like Europe, the United States should codify net neutrality and classify the oligopoly that controls access to the Internet as common carriers. Exactly how is this different than the phone companies once upon a time? Ultimately this terrible proposal and continues to give a thumbs up to Comcast/time warner cable and the three major cell/phone carriers will stifle innovation and reduce US competitiveness.