

7521122488.txt

Eliminating true Net Neutrality will eliminate any competition against those who are already fortunate enough to be able to pay for premium bandwidth. This will eliminate any start - ups and any smaller businesses that already exist but do not make enough profit to pay for "preferred" services. The Internet should be the same for everyone. Isn't that what the United States was founded on, the principal that all men are equal? So why should one small group receive any better treatment than the majority?