

7521122820.txt

I would like to add my opinion to the numerous others who feel ISP's should be classified as title two common carriers. The function performed by ISP's is critical, perhaps even more so than phone companies.

Allowing any form of better access, increased speed or advantage to be given to a company willing to pay for it by an ISP should be unequivocally banned.