

7521123259.txt

In order to ensure an open internet and continue innovation, internet service providers need to be classified as common carriers. They (ISP's) are only being allowed to circumvent the laws and form monopolies by continuing to be classified as "information" carriers. It is ridiculous that the most technologically advanced nation on the planet pays the highest rates, for the slowest data speeds.