

7521123784.txt

The FCC should support net neutrality. Putting restrictions on the internet can only harm progress making it harder for many to use the internet. Furthermore ignoring net neutrality would also harm start up groups and advertising firms while strengthening only data providers.