

7521123940.txt

I believe it is in the best interest of the American public as well as American business entities to reclassify internet service providers (ISP) as Title II common carrier telecommunication service, and subject to identical regulation.