

7521124329.txt

All ISPs should continue to be considered a common carrier as the public currently believes they are. Allowing two monopolies to control the majority of the American public and work for one another's benefit is ridiculous and wouldn't allow for capitalism to grow and flourish.