

7521124691.txt

Please reclassify internet service providers as type II common carriers. To allow providers to charge different rates for optimum broadband speed gives them the power to act as a gatekeeper between consumers and information. This will in effect create a "Pay to Play" system that will favor big companies, all but stifling the ability of upstarts to gain a foothold in the online economy.